

ABSTRACT

An image scanning apparatus has such a configuration that an item and a content of additional information such as previously set character information, sound information recorded in the image scanning apparatus and character
5 information inputted in the image scanning apparatus are displayed unitarily and a user selects and updates freely the displayed item and the content of the additional information.